Presumably set from Juv123 (Lyon, Melchior and Gaspard Trechsel, 1532), or a copy of it. In the Bibliothèque Nationale copy, the date in both the title page and colophon has been altered by hand to read '1564'. The date is correct as printed since other books printed by Petit and Penet are known from the 1530s; the Universal Short Title Catalogue (USTC) lists nearly 50 editions from the partnership between 1533 and 1537. The reference on the title page to a Juvenal 'iam recens hisce nostris typis excusae' would seem to refer to Juv123, though this was printed by the brothers Trechsel. Perhaps there was another edition, now lost, by Petit and Penet, or possibly one of the existing Lyonese editions was printed by them for the printer/publisher named on the title page.

The online catalogue of the Biblioteca Nacional de México records a copy dated 1534 which matches the title transcription and pagination of this edition (including the misprint 'Ivcvlentsisimae') with the imprint 'Lvgdvni, Prostant ap. Vincentium de Portunsiijs [sic], 1534' (Colección General (BN) 877 JUV.1 1534), which would seem to be a variant issue of this edition.

A copy now in the Newberry Library, previously owned by E.K. Schreiber (New York), confirms the existence of the final blank leaf (i8) (private communication).
